PRESS RELEASE

Marshalls to Exhibit Landscape Protection Offer at UK Security Expo

Marshalls, the UK's leading hard landscaping manufacturer, will show its newly launched Landscape Protection offer at the UK Security Expo for the first time.

The exhibition, which will be held at London's Olympia from 29-30th November, is a major-scale event that tackles some of the most challenging threats to our citizens, borders and infrastructure.

At the UK Security Expo, Marshalls will present its response to the changing terror threat in the UK on stand D44, with protective products such as a brand new bollard with corten effect powder coat, illuminated bollard, and an Igeno seat on display.

The show also sees the launch of Marshalls' new white paper which looks into the changing terror landscape and the war against fear. The paper researches how current security solutions can have a detrimental effect of the public's wellbeing, with thought-provoking statistics such as only 15% of people saying that concrete anti-terror barriers make them feel safer throughout.

Steve Reddington, Marshalls Commercial Director for Landscape Protection, said: "The UK Security Expo is the ideal venue for us to introduce our new Landscape Protection offer, and show that anti-terror products don't have to be intrusive, cumbersome, concrete blocks which do more harm to the public psyche than good.

"People should be made to feel safe, not scared, and when people are afraid to enjoy public spaces, then the terrorists have won. We believe our aesthetically led collection of products will go some way in combatting the fear of the UK population by incorporating functional, attractive products into our spaces which have capability to protect them as well."
