

Aggregates & Sand

Quarrying stone in the UK since 1890

We began manufacturing hard landscaping materials in the 1890s, and today, we're proud to be a leading manufacturer of a wide range of solutions for the built environment. Our products are in some of the most prestigious landmarks across the UK, demonstrating our reputation for long-lasting quality.

Partnering with Marshalls means you get more than just products; we provide a wealth of knowledge, experience and expertise to support you throughout your project. All our aggregate products are available for collection or direct-to-site delivery within a 50-mile radius of our quarries.

We provide a flexible service paired with a specialist team that is always exploring new possibilities. We can help you bring your designs to life with a combination of top-quality building and hardscaping products, innovative planning, and design solutions. Your dedicated Account Manager will help you deliver your projects on time and, more importantly, on budget.

Why Marshalls?

Outstanding durability

We boast durability, ensuring you receive cost-effective, long-lasting solutions

Carbon footprint

We are British-made and only deliver within a 50-mile radius, keeping delivery emissions to a minimum

100% renewable energy

Our aggregate sites have 100% renewable energy. We even capture rainwater to reduce the amount of water required for mains

Caring for nature

We put biodiversity plans in place to restore quarries for wildlife

Recycling

All concrete waste is crushed and recycled into aggregates, sending less waste to landfills

Over a century of experience combined with new technology and state-of-the-art production capabilities offer you a flexible and reliable partner to deliver what you need when you need it.
